Orchid is a charming storey house, designed for a family of four-five people. Rectangular shape of the building is covered with a hipped roof and bay windows, roofs protruding beyond the outline of the garage walls diversified the external appearance of the house. Thanks to to details and appropriate proportions we managed to emphasize the elegance of this urban villa, maintaining at the same time peace, moderation and harmony. Interior of the house has been dominated by the open living area on the ground floor and the bedrooms upstairs. On the ground floor besides a large living room with dining area, hall and a semi-open kitchen, there is also spacious porch, garage for two cars, boiler room, and an extra room - for example office. On the first floor, we managed to design a separate parents' apartment - with its own bathroom and two dressing rooms, and three additional bedrooms with private bathrooms. There is a possibility of adapting the attic. There is also available a mirror version of this house plan.
